

GASOLINE TO BE RATIONED TO AUTOISTS

Three of Four Large Supply Companies Order Limit On Sales for Joy Rides; Acute Need in Country Reported

One Company Still Ready to Supply All Comers; Vital Industries Will Not Suffer, Say Leading Distributors

With one company supplying all of the gasoline that is asked and the three others placing restrictions of from three to five gallons on pleasure cars, motorists of the Eastbay cities today found no trouble in getting enough fuel to supply their needs.

The Shell company is the one that has announced that it is facing no shortage and has enough gasoline to take care of all its trade and any that may come in. The service stations are asking no questions and placing no restrictions.

On the grounds that the needs of the farmers must be met first, and placing part of the responsibility on the railroad strike, the Standard Oil company, Associated Oil company and Union Oil company have limited the purchases of their product.

COUNTRY REGIONS NEED GASOLINE

The position of the Standard Oil company is set forth in the following announcement, made public today:

Reports from various quarters, particularly in the San Joaquin and Sacramento valleys, show that the situation is acute and the need of gasoline very great.

The less essential use of gasoline must be curtailed in order that the country districts may have enough to produce crops and supply food.

There is no general gasoline shortage. The present situation is due largely to the railway strike and the disorganization of transportation, and also to the increased demand. Many farmers who depended on electricity to operate their pumps have been obliged by the shortage of electricity to pump their own gasoline.

The shortage will continue throughout the summer and the most careful conservation of gasoline is necessary. The public can help by curtailing consumption, the most effective method of doing which is to reduce the mileage of automobiles.

The San Francisco office of this company today took ten automobiles out of service. With the smaller volume of sales numerous trucks will also be laid up.

Industries and business will not be affected by the order, the company said.

At Fresno the announcement was made that all of the Standard Oil service stations would be closed today and Sunday. The main station will supply doctors, commercial trucks and farmers.

The Shell company will continue to supply the wants of motorists, it is announced.

FARMERS TO GET RIGHT OF WAY

The Associated Oil company through its local office, announced this morning that no orders for a restriction on sales had been received. Despite this word, the supply stations in the Eastbay for pleasure cars, business cars and camping parties were being given the fuel. An explanation of the situation was given by Manager Cook, who said that the restrictions in force today were temporary ones and caused by the delay in the arrival of oil barges.

A national crisis in the supply of oil for the manufacturing of illuminating gas was announced in Washington today, where the Bureau of Mines declared that the extraordinary demands for gasoline were being met through the new "Burton" cracking process enormous quantities of gas oil are being refined into gasoline, and the result has been a shortened supply for the lighting and heating purposes.

Woman Takes Jail Term in Lieu of Fine

Convicted Alameda Chiropractor Cheered by Friends As Sentence Begins.

Meeting to pass fifty days in jail rather than pay a fine that could be used to prosecute other chiropractors, Miss Harper, of Alameda, made a crowd of friends farewell at the doors of the county jail today and began at once the sentence that is to continue until July.

Miss Harper was escorted by the jail by a crowd of her women friends. There Sheriff Frank Barnett made a brief speech, flowers were presented and an air of gaiety maintained that gave the occasion the spirit of a farewell to one who was about to take a journey overseas.

Into the jail office the voluntary escort went with Miss Harper, and there they broke into cheers. Then Linden D. McCash, Berkeley chiropractor who is serving a similar sentence, was allowed to join them.

A bouquet of flowers that had been sent to him by friends was presented to the woman who is the latest chiropractor to be sentenced.

Although following Miss Harper's women friends kissed the prosecutor, and one remarked audibly that "the more she saw of men the more the thought of dogs" there were no demonstrations of any kind.

Women gathered around their convicted friend, spoke words of cheer and urged her to be brave. But there were no tears and no outward signs of grief.

The same course pursued by Miss Harper and McCash will be followed by any other chiropractors who may be arrested for practicing without license, as Miss McCash was made by Attorney George Geider, who represented the Alameda woman. He said that the defendants consider the law unjust, as they are graduates of schools which they attended before the law was passed and which were not selected among the accredited institutions. It is impossible for them, according to Geider, to obtain licenses.

SOLDIER SAVES DAUGHTER OF GENERAL WOOD

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE. LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

Two automobiles speeding by caused the animal to rear, and while Miss Wood was trying to master him a point anywhere within the corner, the driver falling to see the riders until close upon them.

Without a moment's hesitation, Sergeant Beard spurred his horse forward in front of the automobile. The impact hurled horse and man five feet but it also had the effect of swerving the machine so that it missed striking the general's daughter. Sergeant Beard will recover from his injuries, it was said at the hospital.

Fugitive Dies Fighting Battle in Mountains Against His Pursuers

General Herrera, Who Was With Dictator in Flight From Capital, Leads Rebels in Final Attack

TRAIN ORDERED TO BRING BACK BODIES

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 22.—Publication in Mexico City today of an official bulletin announcing that President Carranza and certain of his followers had been killed was reported to the State Department by the American embassy. The message gave no additional details.

EL PASO, May 22 (By the Associated Press).—President Carranza was assassinated by his own men, according to a telegram from General Alvaro Obregon of Mexico City, received by revolutionary agents here today. Carranza was killed by troops under General Rodolfo Herrera, a former federal soldier of the Diaz regime, the message from Obregon stated. The assassination was reported to have taken place at Tlaxcalantongo, Puebla, yesterday.

Carranza's chief followers, who were with him when he died, addressed a message to General Pablo Gonzalez protesting the assassination of their chief. This message was transmitted here by Obregon with his answer.

The Carranza leaders said Carranza was made a prisoner and assassinated at the cry of "Vive Obregon" by Colonel Rodolfo Herrera and his men, violating the hospitality that had been offered him by Herrera.

President Hiding in Mountains Following Flight From Capital

MEXICO CITY, May 20 (By the Associated Press).—President Venustiano Carranza, who with a small party of followers has been a fugitive in the mountains of Puebla since late last week, was killed at Tlaxcalantongo early Thursday morning, according to official announcement here. His companions, the names of whom are unknown, also were killed.

General Rodolfo Herrera, it is said, directed the attack that resulted in the death of the fugitive president and his followers. He belonged to forces commanded by General Francis Mariel, who accompanied Carranza in his flight from this city, but who last week joined the revolutionists.

Traitors Accompany President When Executive Abandons Capital City

There is some uncertainty regarding the exact affiliation of General Herrera. It is generally believed possible, however, that he commanded a small guard which was with the fleeing president. He was in rebellion against Carranza for several years, centering his operations in the state of Puebla. He surrendered last March to General Mariel, who was in command of government forces in that state.

When General Mariel went over to the revolutionists last week a portion of his troops, it is known, remained loyal to the president, and belief exists that Carranza might have taken along with him in his flight Herrera's forces, which finally turned against him.

Carranza Dies Eighty-five Miles From Where He Left Main Army

Tlaxcalantongo is a small village in the vicinity of Huachinango, in the northern "panhandle" of the state of Puebla. It is approximately eighty-five miles from San Andres, where Carranza left his forces and took refuge in the mountains.

The official announcement was given out at 10:30 o'clock last night from the headquarters of General Alvaro Obregon. Reports received here early this morning state that General Juan Barragan, chief of the presidential staff, Ignacio Bonillas, former Mexican ambassador at Washington, General Marcelino Gonzalez and General Federico Montes, who accompanied President Carranza in his flight from San Andres, are believed to have been with the others in the party, which it is believed included Luis Cabrera, minister of the treasury, Alfonso Cabrera, his brother, governor of Puebla, and General Francisco Murguía, who acted as commander of the Carranza troops after the president had fled from this city.

Orders have been given that a train be taken to Beristhan, the nearest railway point to Tlaxcalantongo, to receive the bodies of those killed.

CARRANZA SAID TO HAVE BEEN BETRAYED

By RALPH H. TURNER.

United Press Staff Correspondent.

MEXICO CITY, May 21.—Venustiano Carranza, deposed president of Mexico, with six members of his party, has been killed near the town of Tlaxcalantongo, in the state of Puebla, according to advices to headquarters of both General Obregon and Pablo Gonzalez here tonight.

Reports received at revolutionary headquarters up to midnight did not name the six names of the deposed president's party who were killed with him.

Earlier dispatches, however, had said Luis Cabrera, Carranza's minister of the treasury; General Juan Barragan, chief of staff; Aguirre Berlanga, prime minister, and Ignacio Bonillas, former ambassador to the United States, were with their chief. Telegrams received at the headquarters of General Gonzalez, filed in Huachinango, Puebla, said the bodies were being taken to Beristhan in the same state.

The Carranzas were killed at 1 a. m. yesterday by a force commanded by Colonel Rodolfo Herrera, advices to General Obregon from Villa's headquarters, Juarez, said.

Telegrams here indicated the colonel with his men accompanied Carranza on his final flight in the mountains after the Rinconada defeat. While reports were vague, Carranza was believed at revolutionary headquarters that Colonel Herrera and his men revolted during the flight and turned against Carranza.

In view of the fact that some of the telegrams referred to the killing of Carranza and his men as "assassinations," it was believed they may have been slain without opportunity for defense.

CARRANZA NAMED BY RECORD VOTE

Venustiano Carranza, elected president of Mexico March 11, 1917, by the largest vote ever cast in a presidential election in his country, stepped from political obscurity to national and international prominence on the graves of the hopes of General Victoriano Huerta, the usurper, and his followers.

Simultaneously with General Huerta's coup d'état and the assassination of President Madero, the news went out to the world that Carranza, elected governor of the state of Coahuila in 1911, refused to recognize the usurper and would assist him by force of arms.

PROBLEMS STUDIED
Born of parents in comfortable circumstances in Cuernavaca, state of Coahuila, Carranza followed the public schools of his native state and later studied law at the Mexican capital. When he was admitted to the bar, however, Carranza was prevented from practicing, and he returned to his native state to become a rancher. His experience as a rancher first, then as judge, senator and finally governor of Coahuila, made Carranza familiar with the agrarian problem, the root of political unrest in Mexico.

Having defied Huerta, Carranza allied a small band of 600 followers, which grew into a tolerably sized army when he won the support of Francisco Villa. Carranza's influence spread rapidly, the military victories of his chief ally, Villa, signing the various factions of northern Mexico around his banner. At a time, however, real progress was slow. Huerta's machinations and embroiled Mexico with the United States and intervention seemed imminent. The killing of W. W. Rorison, a British subject, by a staff officer of Villa, further complicated the situation.

U. S. CALLED PARLEY
Then came Villa's victory at Torreon, the first real success of the Carranza forces. Carranza was pressing Huerta and embroiled Mexico with the United States and intervention seemed imminent. The killing of W. W. Rorison, a British subject, by a staff officer of Villa, further complicated the situation.

Shortly afterward independent revolutions led by Zapata, General Pascual Govea and others were in progress. Dissensions between Villa and Carranza, which began at the Torreon conference, reached a climax September 23, 1917, when Villa declared war on Carranza. General Alvaro Obregon was Carranza's leading general.

Carranza, on March 11, 1917, was elected president. General Carranza was married and formerly lived in Saitillo. One of his daughters, Miss Virginia Carranza, became the wife of General Candido Aguilar.

JAPAN INDUSTRY HURT BY CRISIS

TOKYO, May 13 (By the Associated Press).—Inquiry among leading financiers here today elicited the declaration that despite present unsettled economic conditions in this country, Japan is not likely to withdraw gold held in America. This gold is largely invested in American bonds. Japan has more gold at home than she needs. The opinion was expressed that it was too early to declare economic malady in Japan healed, but officers were convinced it was well in hand. This is being done through continuing aid to the stock market by syndicate banks, to which the Bank of Japan has advanced forty million yen. Sugar industries are being similarly assisted. Financiers also pointed out that any withdrawal of foreign investments through fear of Japanese instability would not affect the situation as the investments are all small.

The stock market and the raw silk exchange at Yokohama are weaker and the cotton yarn market has fallen off, but a single bid for cotton is coming for May contracts. The metals market is weak and stagnant and rubber quotations have fallen on realizing sales by small holders. On the other hand the price of tin has sharply advanced and tight money has paralyzed almost all lines of manufacturing. Weaving and spinning have been hit particularly and all weaving factories have been closed since April to prevent accumulation of goods and depreciation of prices. As a result a large number of operatives are idle. About twenty thousand have been sent to the cities have suspended payment, but larger institutions have come to the rescue.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 22.—The auction of half a cent a pound in the wholesale price of heavy lead steers, dressed and other classes of beef was announced by the Western Meat Company here today. The reduction brought the price from 17 to 16 1/2 cents a pound.

Decreased consumption was given as a reason for the reduction.

MY HEART and MY HUSBAND BY ADELE GARRISON

The Way Madge Met Dicky's "Surprise."

Then, as he approached me, pulling one of the extra handkerchiefs which he always carries from his pocket, his left eyelid drooped to his cheek in a prolonged wink, while his face was filled with mischievous understanding.

My spirits bounded at the smile of completely comprehension that beamed at me as he flourished the handkerchief. It was a smile which relegated Rita Brown to the nethermost outland.

THE SURPRISE REVEALED
"Now I've got you where you'll stand without hitching," he declared merrily, as he turned me around, slipped his hand under my arm, guided my footsteps across the lawn to the big house, and then, with a sudden change of direction, he drove me into the back garden, where he had a surprise for me.

We had been surrounded on our brief journey by the others, and laughing admonitions to Dicky flew thick and fast when he finally stopped.

"Not that way!"
"You're half a mile off your course. Turn so by south-west."
"Turn her so that she'll see it first thing."

"Don't make her hunt for it!"
Only Rita Brown's voice was silent. I could visualize through my continuing handkerchief the ironical superior smile her face was wearing.

"Who's doing this?" Dicky demanded, taking me by the shoulders and turning me halfway round. "There, now, it'll hit her spang between the eyes. Don't open your eyes until I say 'ready.' Madge, be solemn, fumbling with the handkerchief."

I obediently kept my eyes closed until my husband's rather theatrical "pull of ready." When I did open them it was upon the sight of a big, laughing man, with the beautiful lines and appointments characteristic of the costlier machines.

Apprehension mingled with the first flash of pleasure with which any woman views a new automobile. This must be the surprise, and from the bantering remarks I had gathered that Dicky and Alfred Barker were joint owners of the machine. I knew that our circumstances didn't warrant the purchase of such a car, and the knowledge took from me the pleasure I would otherwise have anticipated at the sight of the car.

"You wasted your effort! Mrs. Graham doesn't appear to be over-whelmed either by surprise or pleasure."

Rita Brown's drawing, ironical tones were like the touch of a whip lash. I would not permit her to imagine for one instant that I did not wholly approve of my husband's purchase. With a little exclamation of pleased surprise which directly addressed Dicky and ignored her remark as if I had not heard it, I moved toward my husband, clasped his hands about his arm.

"Oh, Dicky!" I said enthusiastically. "Isn't it wonderful? You fairly took my breath away with the surprise of it. It is really ours, in part."

I caught a flash of relief in his eyes, sure that he too had over-whelmed his momentary hesitation. Then he bent his head toward me, held his hand for an instant over mine, closing his arm.

"It belongs to you and me little madge, ever there," he said. "All I and I are simply the chauffeurs. So you really like it?"

"Like it?" I threw all the force I could manage into my voice and smile. "It's a dream fulfilled, dear. When may we try it?"

I could not forbear a swift little glance at all appearances casual, at Rita Brown. She was watching me closely, her face still holding its cool, ironical look. I knew that I had not deceived her, that she had read correctly my dismay at the sight of the costly car. But I also knew and pruned the knowledge to me, that I had scored heavily against her feminine selfishness. She is the sort of woman who cannot bear to see anything masquerading as devotion to her as the traditional diet of gall and wormwood.

Dicky's absorption in my approval, his cool ignoring of her sarcasm, must have been about as palatable to her as the traditional diet of gall and wormwood.

Pilgrims' Landing to Be Celebrated

By EDNA B. KINARD.

Three hundred years ago it was that that gallant band of Pilgrims stepped from the Mayflower into a new world to set up here the standards of free speech and free thought. All over the nation, which was born of this adventurous arrival, this year is to be celebrated the anniversary of their coming. Very early in the fall, extending even up to the Thanksgiving season, more than seventy cities will stage such historical pageants as have never before been witnessed in this land of colorful and glowing pageantry.

The local forerunner of this third centenary celebration is announced for Monday evening, May 24, in the Auditorium of San Francisco, when the British Society, assisted by the Mayflower, the New England societies and the Pilgrimage Society, will stage a pageant of the story of pioneer days in America. The "Pioneerers" has been chosen for the great pageant of the Pilgrimage, in which more than 500 characters are cast. "Pioneerers" is a spectacular production of tableaux portraying the founding of the thirteen original states will be offered. Dancing will begin at 8:00 p. m.

The celebration has been arranged as a benefit to the treasuries which are carrying on philanthropic work under the patriotic societies which are sponsoring it. Cards may be obtained from the British Consulate, 120 Sutter street, San Francisco, and the Overseas Club, 120 Sutter street.

No Californian is included among the twenty-four American delegates who are now on the high seas en route to attend the International Woman Suffrage Congress, which will open on Sunday, June 6, a week's conference. However, in the group of brilliant leaders are those who have been chosen to represent the state of California. Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, who was in Oakland this spring, and Mrs. Stanley W. Wood, New York, president and first corresponding secretary of the National Woman Suffrage Association, are leading the delegation from this country. Mrs. Helen King Robinson, member of the Colorado State Senate, will be the only woman legislator in the party. Others who will represent the sisterhood of the United States are Mrs. Jacob Baur, Chicago; Mrs. W. E. Barkley of Lincoln, Neb.; Dr. Marion Horton, Vermont; Mrs. Desha Breckinridge, Kentucky; Mrs. Frederick Nathan of New York; Miss Julia Lathrop, Chicago.

England will send Viscountess Nancy Astor of Parliament as one of its distinguished representatives. The week's discussions will revolve about these questions which concern woman's achievements and development.

Plans are maturing for the calling of a general meeting of the local business and professional women's clubs, for the purpose of organizing a state federation. The Women's Forum of San Francisco is taking the initiative in the movement, which will bring into the national association before its annual convention in July a strong state body. The Oakland club, with half a hundred active members, is heartily in favor of the plan which will coordinate the work of the organization along the Pacific Coast.

Mrs. Ann B. Ferguson, distinguished long study artist, will offer a program of character studies at the Thursday downtown luncheon next week.

The cracksmen entered by removing a pane of glass from a window.

Did you ever plan to be a train robber when you grew up? Doctors, lawyers, ministers and other respectable citizens who failed to realize this natural boyhood ambition may yet enjoy a vicarious thrill by reading "My Career of Crime," the autobiography of a train robber which starts in Hearst's this month. This exciting narrative and interesting study of criminal psychology is, for obvious reasons, published anonymously. See "I Rob My First Train," on page 12 of over the edge of the mortar, holding it steady. He gave it a wild rap with the pestle, but felt it not. Meanwhile Mr. McGowan's smile faded to a look of perplexed gloom.

An O. HENRY Story a Day

"He was no outfielder—he picked them off the bat."

"That is," he continued, "if she keeps in the notion until the time comes. We've been laying pipes for the getaway for two weeks. One day she says she will, the same evening she says nix. We've agreed on to-night, and Rosy's stuck to the affirmative this time for two whole days. But it's five hours yet till the time, and I'm afraid she'll stand me up when it comes to the scratch."

"You said you wanted drugs," remarked Ikey.

Mr. McGowan looked ill at ease and harassed—a condition opposed to his usual line of demeanor. He made a patient medicine salesman into a roll and fitted it with unproductive carelessness about his finger.

"I wouldn't have this double-handicap make a false start tonight for a million," he said. "I've got a little fat up in Harlem all ready, with rhubarb, cathartics on the table and a kettle ready to boil. And I've engaged a pupil powder to be ready at his house for us at 9:30. It's got to come off. And if Rosy don't change her mind again—"

"Mr. McGowan," said Ikey, "I don't see them yet," said Ikey, shortly, "what makes it that you talk of drugs, or what I can be doing about it?"

"Old man Riddle don't like me a little bit," went on the uneasy author, bent upon marshaling his arguments. "For a week he hasn't let Rosy stop outside the door with me. If it wasn't for Josie's a boarder they'd have bounced me long ago. I'm makin' $20 a week and she'll never regret flyin' the coop with Chuck McGowan."

"You will excuse me, Chuck," said Ikey. "I must make a prescription that is to be called for soon."

"Say," said McGowan, looking up suddenly, "say, Ikey, ain't there a drug of some kind—some kind of powder that'll make a girl like you better if you give 'em to her?"

Ikey's lip beneath his nose curled with the scorn of superior enlightenment; but before he could answer, McGowan said:

"Tim Lacy told me he got some once from a croaker uptown and fed 'em to his girl in soda water. From the very first dose he was ace-high and everybody else looked like thirty cents to her. They was married in less than two weeks."

Strong and simple was Chuck McGowan. A better reader of men than Ikey was could have seen that his tough frame was strung upon fine wires. Like a good general who was about to invade the enemy's territory he was seeking to guard every point against possible failure.

"I thought," went on Chuck hopefully, "that if I had one of them powder things to give Rosy when I see her at supper tonight it might brace her up and keep her from reneging on the proposition to skip. I guess she don't need a mule team to drag her away, but women are better at coaching than they are at running bases. If the stuff'll work just for a couple of hours it'll do the trick."

"When is this foolishness of running away to be happening?" asked Ikey.

"Nine o'clock," said Mr. McGowan. "Supper's at seven. At eight, Rosy goes to bed with a headache, at nine old Parvanezo lets me through to his back yard, where there's a board of Riddle's fence, next door. I go under the window and help her down the fire-escape. We've got to make it early on the preacher's account. It's all dead easy if Rosy don't balk when the flag drops. Can you fix me one of them powder things, Ikey?"

Ikey Schoenstein rubbed his nose slowly.

"Chuck," said he, "it is of drugs of that nature that pharmacologists must have much carefulness. To you alone of my acquaintance would I intrust a powder like that. But for you I shall make it, and you shall see how it makes Rosy think of you."

Ikey went behind the prescription desk. There he crushed to a powder two soluble tablets, each containing a quarter of a grain of morphine. To them he added a little sugar of milk to increase the bulk, and folded the mixture neatly in a white paper.

"Taken by an adult this powder would insure several hours of heavy slumber without danger to the sleeper. I'm handing to Chuck McGowan, telling him to administer it in a liquid if possible, and received the hearty thanks of the backyard lock-picker."

"Much obliged," he said, briefly, to Ikey. The lazy Irish loafer! My own room's just above Rosy's. I'll just go up there myself after supper and load the shotgun and wait. If he comes in my back yard he'll go away in a ambulance instead of a bridal chair."

With Rosy held in the clutches of Morphine for a many hours' slumber, and the bloodthirsty parent waiting, armed and forewarned, Ikey felt that his rival was close, indeed, upon discomfiture.

All night in the Blue Light Drug Store he waited at his duties for chance news of the tragedy, but none came.

At eight o'clock in the morning the day clerk arrived and Ikey started furiously for Mrs. Riddle's to learn the outcome. And, lo, as he stepped out of the store who but Chuck McGowan sprang from a passing street car and grasped his hand—Chuck McGowan with a victor's smile and flushed with joy.

"Pulled it off," said Chuck with Elysium in his grin. "Rosy hit the fire-escape on time to a second, and she was under the wire at the Reverend's at 9:20. She's up at the flat—she cooked eggs this mornin' in a blue kimono—Lord, how lucky I am! You must pace up some day, Ikey, and feed with us. I've got a job down near the bridge, and that's where I'm heading for now."

"The—powder?" stammered Ikey.

"Oh, that stuff you gave me!" said Chuck, broadening his grin. "Well, it was the way. I sat down at the supper table last night at Riddle's, and I looked at Rosy, and I says to myself, 'Ikey, if you got the girl get her on the square don't try any hocus-fucus with a thoroughbred like her.' And I keeps the paper you gave me in my pocket. And then my lamps fall on another party present, who, I says to myself, is fallin' in a proper affection toward his comin'-son-in-law so I watches my chance and dumps that powder in old man Riddle's coffee, see?"

GASOLINE SHORTAGE

Farm Must Be Supplied City Sales Curtailed

The dislocation of railway transportation, coupled with the general shortage in the supply of gasoline, has created a serious situation in agricultural districts. At many points there is insufficient supply to operate tractors, irrigation pumps and other equipment used in the production of an adequate food supply.

It has become necessary to curtail the supply of gasoline to less essential uses, that the very vital and extremely urgent demands of agriculture may be met.

Quantities of the gasoline which normally come to San Francisco, Oakland and other cities, will now be sent with all speed to the farming sections, and motorists of these cities will be unable to obtain their usual full supply. Industries and business will be supplied with sufficient gasoline to meet requirements.

The protection of crops is of paramount importance to all persons, whether engaged in farming or otherwise.

Reports have been received, showing that at some points crops are threatened with complete destruction unless instant relief is given.

The resources of this Company will be utilized to the utmost to meet the situation, and so long as is necessary agricultural demands must be given preference over less essential use, particularly the consumption of gasoline for pleasure purposes.

The public can materially help the situation by curtailing the consumption of gasoline, through very careful use and conservation, not only at the moment but throughout the summer.

HEADACHES ARE DANGER SIGNALS

Nature never fails to send out warning when the health is in danger. The warning may be painful as in the case of headaches or indigestion, but if heeded in time and the proper remedy is taken, serious consequences may be avoided.

Headaches are generally an indication of nerve starvation. In good health the substance which the nerve cells use up in work is renewed by nourishment which it gets from the blood. If the blood becomes thin and weak the nerves cannot get sufficient nourishment. Headaches, indigestion and sometimes neuritis are the result.

When the nerves give warning that they are feeble for want of food, begin treatment at once with the tonic which Mrs. John W. Harris, of No. 3273 Martin avenue, San Diego, Cal., found so beneficial.

"Loss of weight, extreme nervousness and loss of strength were my chief symptoms," says Mrs. Harris. "It seemed as though I was tired all the time and would never get enough rest. I had very thin blood and my blood was so thin that I lost all my color. I suffered almost continuously from headaches."

"I had tried several medicines but they all upset my stomach so that I had to give them up. One day I got a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and began to take them. Before I had taken a box I began to feel stronger and had more ambition. It was not long before my appetite improved and I found myself looking forward with pleasure to meal time. Gradually my nerves became quieter. The headaches became less severe and then disappeared. I think Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a fine tonic and have recommended them to my friends."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or will be sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents a box by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Write for the free booklet, "Diseases of the Nervous System."—Advertisement.

the late Mrs. S. Sisley, who was the subject of the "Fruit of the Tree" series. Mrs. Sisley's sermon Sunday evening, "Are you safe with the mere good times and idle days of life?—safe with 'Bohemian company'?" In indicating too much of the "Bohemian company" of the world, the sermon Dr. Sisley's said mother came to him frequently for counsel and advice of their girls. The girls seem to think that it is harder to raise young and girls cool than to raise boys. Dr. Sisley hopes that he will be able on Sunday evening to give a sermon on the "Bohemian company" and claim the splendid girls for the nobler life of the Christian life.

At the morning service Dr. Sisley was present and gave a cogent and inspiring sermon on the occasion of the 20th anniversary of the founding of the Filinvest at present known as the "Fruit of the Tree" Day. It will give a modern spiritual interpretation of the "Fruit of the Tree" and it will be a sermon of intense interest. The subject will be "The Fruit of the Tree."

If there was a belief or a sign that Villa was to come in and he could arrange his own enemy being deposed and his personal safety being guaranteed, the same has received a shock in the bandit's declaration that he will not be good in return for wiping off the slate and forgetting his rather overt exploits of the past seven years, unless there are further guarantees as to the government, which would seem to mean that it must be run to suit him. And he must see such guarantees in process of being carried out before he comes down out of the mountains, disbands his force, and takes up the blundering of civilian life. The prospect

WOMEN OBJECT TO OLD MEN ON JURIES OF STATE

Charges that juries in Alameda county were largely composed of old men whose faculties were impaired were made in the sweeping declaration at the annual meeting of the California Civic League in Palo Alto yesterday that "there was nothing worse in California than the present jury system."

Mrs. Frank G. Law, who was elected president of the state body, cited a jury of the past year on which the youngest member was 76 years old, the oldest 84 years old.

Mrs. L. C. Grasser offered information that one man had been a constant juror since 1906.

"The large increase of radicals results from the present jury system," Mrs. Law declared.

Reforms in the jury system will be advocated by the league which is sponsoring a movement to introduce before the next session of the legislature a bill amending the present practice. It is proposed to reduce the time of service for a panel from three months to ten or fourteen days; to reduce the exempted classes and to name the time before a juror may again be chosen. Supplementing the legislative measures to which the league gave endorsement were proposed measures requiring that women be named as members of all state boards and commissions, and the equalization of the age of majority for both sexes.

Resolutions endorsing a plan to make the women's department in the Department of Labor permanent, and the Shepherd-Turner bill were adopted. Renewed pledges of support to the community property law were made for adjournment.

CAR HURTTLES OFF CURVE; 2 INJURED

SAN JOSE, May 22.—Fred Smith, a prominent young business man, is in a critical condition at the O'Connor sanitarium, and Arnold B. Jamison, a young real estate dealer, is seriously injured as a result of injuries received last evening when his car crashed clear through a 15-inch telephone pole on the Los Gatos-San Jose road. The men were speeding when the accident occurred.

San Jose, they said, when Jamison lost control of the car on a wide curve and the machine left the pavement and struck the pole.

Had the car missed the pole, it would have crashed into the side of the home of C. E. Henger, about 30 feet beyond. The crash was caused by the noise of the impact and ran to the aid of the injured man, X-ray pictures were taken of Smith's head today to determine the extent of scalp injury. He is also suffering from a broken arm.

F. Sopher, 142 North Fifteenth street, suffered a fractured rib and numerous cuts and bruises when he was hurled from his bicycle by being struck by the auto driven by C. W. O'Dell, 185 South Ninth street, at Ninth and Santa Clara yesterday. The injured man was taken to the city emergency hospital, where his injuries were attended to and was then returned to his home. Spectators say Sopher cut in front of the auto as O'Dell was turning the corner.

Commercial Men of U. S. Guests of City With Opening of Industrial Exposition

5000 Visitors Expected to Take Part in Ceremonies
This Evening.

With several thousand commercial travelers from all over the United States in attendance, the Industrial Exposition of the Oakland Commercial Travelers' association will open this evening at 8 o'clock at the civic auditorium with Mayor John L. Davis, Supervisor Raymond C. Staats and Samuel T. Breyer as the first speakers.

The auditorium is completely filled with exhibits from practically every city in California. "Something doing every minute" is the slogan of the Travelers, who have provided an airplane circus from Durant field, special features at the municipal theater and a recital by the Steindorff exposition band and singers for this afternoon and evening.

On Sunday 5000 commercial travelers are expected to arrive from their annual convention in Sacramento. The features for tomorrow consist in free lectures and motion pictures in the theater, a concert Sunday evening, hand music during the day and award of prizes to exhibitors.

The proceeds from the show will be used for the construction of a new house in this city for Commercial Travelers. Monday will be Alameda city day on which the judging of the Cindarella and Tribby contests for the girls with the smallest and most perfectly formed feet will be held. There will be contests for the most economically baked cake, pie and loaf and for the best made fingham apron.

Mayor Davis has issued a proclamation asking that the people support the exposition.

GRAND JURY TO QUIZ MULCREVY

SAN FRANCISCO, May 22.—The controversy between County Clerk Harry I. Mulcrevy and Lieutenant of Police Charles Goff, which has been raging since Mulcrevy criticized the officer for his activities in the bail bond investigation will have an air-bell before the grand jury on Monday night when the clerk will be called upon to give needed testimony. Foreman Harrelson said today that Mulcrevy will be asked to supply names of attorneys who appeared in certain police court cases and to submit records. While the clerk has said that he will produce any and all records, it has become known that duplicate bail receipts, releases and subpoenas accumulated for some time have been burned under his direction.

The originals, Mulcrevy says, have been preserved. Continuation of the trial of Police Judge John J. Sullivan was yesterday continued until June 21 by Superior Judge Louis H. Ward.

CITY INSPECTOR TO PAY WIFE NO. 1

That an agreement for alimony will effect a settlement of the matrimonial tangle brought about by charges of Mrs. Margaret Lloyd of Pittsburg that Joseph A. Lloyd, Oakland building inspector, deserted her twenty years ago in the East and has failed to provide for her, is indicated by the agreement of Lloyd for the (temporary) payment of $100 a month. The payments are to start June 21 and will continue until the complicated marital tangle is straightened.

Lloyd was sued for support for the last sixteen years. The wife charged that she had been deserted and that Lloyd was living in Oakland with another wife, Mrs. Stella Lloyd.

BERKELEY MUST CUT ITS BUDGET CLEAR TO BONE

BERKELEY, May 22.—More than a half million dollars in property will be removed from Berkeley's assessment rolls this year and further complicate the financial difficulties of the college city, as a result of expenditures called by war veterans.

City Assessor Harry J. Squires reports to date a total of 593 applications for exemptions of $1000 each from former soldiers, as provided under law. While these include Civil and Spanish War Veterans, the majority constitute men serving in the recent world struggle.

Another cut in the assessment roll, Squires has informed the City Council, will come from the confiscation of more than $250,000 in property by the Board of Education on sites where new schools will be erected.

That the budget as presented to the council this week will have to be shaved 40 per cent instead of 25 per cent, is the probable outcome of new developments in the financial affairs of the city. A 6 cent saving will be afforded this year on the various bond funds, Auditor Elmer Bell has informed the council.

DRAY TEAMSTERS THREATEN STRIKE

A strike of teamsters for the draying companies is threatened on June 15, unless the Draymen's Association of Oakland and Berkeley accedes to the demands of the Brotherhood of Teamsters, No. 70, for a flat advance of $1 a day wages. The association Thursday night refused to consider the increase, saying they would be forced from business.

According to officials of the association the new demand by the drivers is in violation of a contract entered into on September 2, 1919, effective for one year, notwithstanding previous agreements for 12 months which had run but 75 days. The high cost of living was the factor which brought about the advance in wages at that time. The association promptly denounced the alleged second violation of contract.

Firms say they have been obliged heretofore to absorb the advance themselves, but for increase in rates having been twice denied by the railroad commission.

The Brotherhood of Teamsters admits the possibility of the strike. According to union officials wages vary from $2.50 to $3.50 a day. Their present contract expires on June 4, the teamsters declare.

Fleet of Planes Fly Over City in Battle Evolutions

Owing to a stiff wind which blew over the city today the grand aerial parade was forced to fly at such an altitude that very few Oaklanders knew that there had been any planes over the city. An occasional roar from a motor on the flash of a wing high up was the only evidence.

The planes, flying at over 3000 feet altitude, were led by Major Carl Spatz in an army plane. Among the flyers who participated were several overseas flyers, holding records for the bringing down of enemy planes. The planes flew battle formation, consisting of three vertical rows, the city and returning to Durant field, where the Salvation Army aerial derby is being held this afternoon.

Two last-minute entries were Cloyd Vevenger, who recently won the Pacific Coast flying championship at Redwood City, and Arthur Todd of Tracy. During the flight, Franklin Rose, standing on the top wing of one of the foremost planes acted as a radio traffic officer, directing the combat groups.

The program at Durant field this afternoon is as follows:

2:30—Free-for-all race of Curtiss planes.

2:40—Demonstrations of other planes.

2:50—C. V. Pickup will fly Ballin's plane against time.

3:30—Volunteer aerobatics.

Hikers Will Climb to Redwood Peak

EXPLOSIONS SET OIL PLANT AFIRE

after the fire started and property valued at more than $500,000 is threatened.

The fire was started by the overflow of blazing oil from the still, which reached a gasoline tank and caused an explosion. The flames were thrown to another gasoline tank which also exploded. The fire spread rapidly through the steam plant and the still room, destroying seven stills. A general alarm called out all downtown fire-fighters and five engine companies responded, but before they could get their pressure lines into operation ten gasoline and distillate tanks were burning and forcing the firemen back. Many explosions accompanied the flames.

The fire was perilously near a string of oil storage tanks holding thousands of barrels of oil.

Policemen were called from two stations and established lines to hold the crowds out of the danger zone. The dense clouds of black smoke coming from the burning oil attracted thousands, who crowded near the flames, unmindful of danger from explosions, until they were herded back.

BANKER'S ADVICE

NEW YORK, May 22. — Present conditions of unrest and discontent throughout the country will not be remedied by legislative action or appeals to patriotism. Henry P. Davison of J. P. Morgan & Co. today told the joint legislative committee investigating profiteering.

The reason declared that while many factors are contributing to cause high prices and industrial unrest, a reduction of expenditures by the Federal Government would be a little to individuals and a full day's work with fair pay for every one would produce a marked effect within a brief time.

High taxation, he said, is in his opinion, a contributing factor toward high costs. "It is human nature to hate taxes," he said.

"To let the other fellow pay the bill and if there is legislation which imposes an increase of taxes on the manufacturer of your product you put that on. And I am not sure but what in the present phase some have not added a little for my measure."

The cost of a dollar in this country will increase because much of Europe is unproductive, he declared.

The matrimonial adventures of three wives were terminated last week by Judge J. E. Trabucco, who granted each one an interlocutory decree of divorce on the grounds of extreme cruelty.

Mrs. Jessie Clough declared that Frank Clough constantly nagged at her, accusing her of being intimate with her brother, and left her on two occasions.

"BONUS BILL IS IMMORAL," SAYS DR. CHAS. ELIOT

BOSTON, May 22.—Dr. Chas. W. Eliot, president of the Y. M. C. A. of Harvard University, speaking at the New England Red Cross conference last night, denounced the proposed soldiers' bonus bill as "immoral."

"It is proposed to offer a premium to the national army in the form of a bonus," he said. "Could anything be more immoral or suggestive of a wrong attitude toward the duty which every young man owes to his country?"
